Billboard Campaign Urges AG To Reinvestigate Case

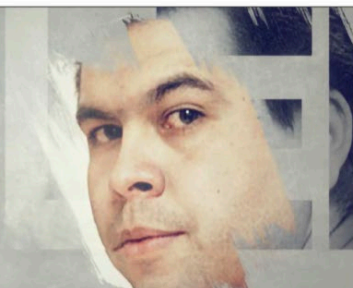

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma - The campaign to Free Anthony Sanchez, the next man scheduled to be executed in Oklahoma on September 21, 2023, launched billboards in Norman and Oklahoma City overnight, following the resumption of executions in the state after a six-month hiatus. The illuminated digital billboards ask Oklahoma Attorney General Gentner Drummond to check the DNA of an alternative suspect in the 1996 murder of Juli Busken. They also invite Oklahomans to watch a short, 23-minute film that spells out multiple concerns with the lack of credible evidence in the case.

At least two Oklahoma legislators who have seen the film have written to the Attorney General, seeking the withdraw of Sanchez' execution date and a reinvestigation of the case.

The 12'x40' and 14'x48 foot billboards, which went live at 12am CT on July 21st, are located at I-35W/S, 0.10mi N/O Robinson St, in Norman [Geopath#:31036772] (35.2343/-97.4864) and at I-44N/S, 500ft W/ON.Kelley Ave, in Oklahoma City [Geopath#:31036872] (35.5347/-97.4960), Both display the following two messages:

Issues in the case are spelled out on the web page at FreeAnthonySanchez.org, in the campaign's petition at bit.ly/AnthonySanchezOK, and are elaborated upon by investigator David Ballard in the film, "Evidence Unraveled: The Fight to Free Anthony Sanchez," which may be viewed on the web site. Permission is granted for rebroadcast of any part of the film.

Ballard, who lives and works in Norman, is available for in-person interviews. Rev. Dr. Jeff Hood, Sanchez's spiritual advisor, and Abraham Bonowitz, executive director of Death Penalty Action, the group managing the campaign, are available for comment via phone and zoom. Contact: Blair Fitzgibbon
